CEO's Message

Welcome to AIWT! It is a pleasure and an honour to introduce myself as the CEO of AIWT. AIWT has a team of dedicated, industry experienced trainers/assessors, and a highly skilled administration team to support students from enquiry to graduation, and beyond!

The world has experienced one of its biggest challenges over the last 2 years, literally bringing industries and countries to their knees. Here in Perth, we have been very fortunate in conquering the pandemic and living an almost "normal" life. Resilience and determination, coupled with good management and planning, has seen AIWT grow stronger than ever. With technology and working closely with our students, we have ensured that training was not disrupted and quality was never compromised, whilst safeguarding the health of our students, trainers and the community. We are now ready to welcome our international students back to a safe and healthy environment.

Our goal at AIWT has always been: PASSION and EMPLOYABILITY.

Traditional views place vocational training as a second choice if a university pathway is not achievable. What most parents and students don't realise is that vocational graduates enjoy a much higher employability rate than university graduates, and such artisan jobs will long remain beyond most computer-replaced university graduate roles. And let's not forget that we are all built differently. We guide our students to nurture their passion and start their rewarding career. Many of our graduates then become very successful entrepreneurs and business owners.

We aim to prepare our students to find a job as soon as they graduate, if not sooner. And we do that by focusing on the individual and working together to ensure a smooth learning journey. We provide personalised support and counselling, quality learning environment, flexible learning options and exposure to industry and work placement to apply theory into practice. We also work very hard with employers and industry experts, to ensure that our students are equipped with what is relevant to industry, therefore increasing their employability.

At AIWT, we enjoy a very diverse and culturally rich community. The more different we seem, the more we realise how alike we essentially are. And we harness the positivity of these differences to challenge the norm and bring new ideas and vibrancy to our campus.

Together, guided by our values - to be genuine, passionate and progressive - we believe our students will be prepared for tomorrow.

Come and be part of AIWT. I look forward to meeting you soon.

Yvonne Yeo, CEO

You can also rent a property (entire house) with your friends and share living expenses. However, most of these properties come unfurnished, you will also need to purchase electrical items, furniture, bedding and kitchen utensils. You will usually need to pay four weeks' rent upfront (known as bond) as well as cover the costs for connecting the electricity, gas, telephone and internet.

I'm a mature-aged student, almost at the end of my Diploma in Community Services with AIWT. I decided I needed a career change from working as an Education Assistant for years whilst my children were at school.

After meeting Gurpreet, the Trainer, I found her to be very knowledgeable as she has so many years of experience in the field. Her delivery of each unit was clear and informative, she was always very approachable and helpful, if anyone had any questions, she would say to speak to her or send her an email. The staff, college, and classroom environment were informal and relaxed, every student felt welcomed, which made it an enjoyable place to come. I've made some great friendships along the way and look forward to a rewarding future.

Word from our Partner, IQI WA

I am originally from Malaysia and came to Australia to further my education. After completing my qualification, I moved to Hong Kong and China where I worked for 10 years. I then decided to return to Perth, where I now call home.

I began my career in the real estate industry in 2010 and within 4 years, I started my own company, Trident Property Partners. Over the next few years, I collected numerous property awards and was recognised as a leading property strategist in the real estate industry.

On 1st July 2019, Trident Property Partners joined forces with IQI Global, a leading global real estate and investment advisory agency, to form IQI WA.

Over the last 10 years, not only have I found financial success and personal recognition, it has provided me with flexibility, giving me the work life balance of my choosing. The best thing about a career in real estate – it is not limited to those with higher education. Anyone with determination and a willingness to work hard, can make a fortune. And there is no limit to your success.

We are now working with AIWT as I want to share some of my success with the next, upcoming generation of real estate professionals. AIWT provide training for those keen to start a career in the real estate industry and also provide them with opportunities to have internships in agencies to kick-start their career. Together with AIWT, we are looking forward to also introducing Australian qualifications to our worldwide network.
